MISCELLANEOUS READING.

There is an incompleteness about many epitaphs, of which this one in Wrexham church-"Here lies John Shore, I say no more; He was alive

In-75." that superior Golden Twist CHEWING And in others there is more stated than is quite necessary. In Grantham churchyard we read: "John Palfreyman, who is buried here,

Was aged four and twenty year; And near this place his mother lies; Likewise his father, when he dies." This superfluousness sometimes extends even to manifest falsehood, as in Llanymynech churchyard, in Montgomeryshire, where it is thus writ-

"Here lies John Thomas, And his three children dear, Two are buried at Oswestry. And one here."

Here is a gentlewoman, who, if I may so speak of a gentlewoman departed, appears to have thought by no means small beer of herself: "A good mother I have been. Many troubles I have seen,

All my life I've done my best, And so I hope my soul's at rest." CLASP ME FONDLY. Clasp me fondly, treat me kindly;

As a lilly on the bosom Of a lake reclines its blossom, On my trusting heart recline; Press your rosy lips to mine; From your brown and waving tresses Shake whole clouds of tendernesses-Kiss me madly, kiss me blindly-Do not stop to droop or blush But go it with a perfect rush!

But go it, dearest, while you're young! THE CORAL REEFS OF FLORIDA. At the last meeting of the Boston Natural Historical Society, Professor Agassis gave an account of his recent visit to the reefs of Florida, and his explanation of coraline growths. He estimates the rate of coral growth to be only a few inches in a century; a tenth or a tweifth part less than has been hitherto supposed, and supposing the reef rises from a depth of twelve fathome, be would calculate its age upon its arrival at the surface of the water to be about twenty-five thousand years, and the total age of the four distinct concentric reefs of the southern extremity of the peninsula to be one hundred thousand years. Professor William B. Rogers said that the physical conditions could rections for making Pearl Starch for Laun- not have differed much in that region a hundry purposes, Pudding, Cake, and Blanc Mange, dred thousand years ago from what they now are, and consequently that such a calculation could reasonably be made upon the data accumulated by Professor Agassiz. Dr. D. F. Weyland called attention to a fact observed by him while in Hayti, which would seem to involve a more rapid growth of some kind of corals than is generally assumed. He there cor.
